It is part of a series of silent video/movement poems in which the human presence is an integrated, non-dominant part of the environment. I am happy to share a short piece we also made, Poesia Liguria, a solo performance in a video projection of tailored images providing a virtual backdrop for your next Zoom meeting. This week we are featuring images by two recent BF Staff members: from sixteenth-century England, to one of the world’s busiest maternity hospitals in the Philippines, and from Mexico City to the craggy coastline of Liguria, where nature is in full force all around the dei Pini garden and in the historic center of Genoa.
